

It was the week before the concert, and instruments from all corners of the world had started to arrive for this last important evening of the year.

Trumpets, cornets, cellos, drums, flutes, harps, piccolos, bells and even a grand piano were brought in. Her Majesty the Queen was to attend this very special performance, and all the instruments and musicians were trembling with excitement.

